Herndon, VA, October 21, 2010 – Last night, 900 members of the Northern Virginia technology community gathered at TechCelebration, the annual banquet of the Northern Virginia Technology Council (NVTC), the largest technology council in the nation. During the event, John Chambers, Chairman and CEO of Cisco Systems, Inc. (NASDAQ: CSCO), delivered keynote remarks and NVTC honored the Council’s former Chair Dan Bannister for his commitment to the region’s technology business community and his civic and philanthropic accomplishments, including his role as a founder of NVTC’s Equal Footing Foundation (EFF).

"Each year, TechCelebration brings together technology, business, community and government leaders to celebrate the strength and diversity of our region’s technology community and we were honored to have John Chambers with us this year to share his insights on technology trends, global competitiveness and how the network is transforming business and government," said NVTC President & CEO Bobbie Kilberg. "This year’s event was particularly meaningful for NVTC, as we honored former Chair Dan Bannister with the 2010 Chairman’s Award for his unparalleled contributions to the Northern Virginia technology community, NVTC and the Equal Footing Foundation, NVTC’s charitable arm."

EcomNets was named the NVTC Green Award Winner for small business by the Northern Virginia Technology Council. NVTC Green Awards recognizes area technology companies, universities and organizations that are making an impact on the region through top-notch environmental practices. Now in its second year, the NVTC Green Awards honor one large (more than $50 million revenue), which was won by ICF International <http://www.icfi.com> , and one small (less than $50 million revenue), which was won by EcomNets, Inc. <http://www.ecomnets.com>

“We are very thankful for this award. Our team has worked really hard over the last two years to develop the Green IT practice.” said Raj Kosuri, CEO of EcomNets, “we expect to continue innovating new green strategies moving forward.”

NVTC announced the finalists and winners during last night’s TechCelebration: NVTC's Annual Banquet at the The Ritz-Carlton, Tysons Corner where John Chambers, chairman and CEO of Cisco, was the keynote speaker.
